Dear Jim:

Although I, too, was at the Vanderbilt breakfast in Chattanooga, I did not have an opportunity to congratulate you on the honor which your colleagues have conferred on you. I am well aware that Vanderbilt does not mean to you what it did in the days of Owsley and Binkley; this is a feeling which we all share. Those of us who are now here feel it more keenly than you might realize. Still, we can be pleased when recognition comes to a graduate of the Department. I wish you continued success.

Cordially,

Henry Lee Swint
